Five Black Flag lineups played six shows* all over Southern California's San Gabriel Valley. They canceled at least three times.

The second radio commercial on "Cross Commentaries" at the end of Rollins' Everything Went Black compilation is for a show in the San Gabriel Valley. The show was recorded at the station in 1980. The show was recorded at the station in 1980. The show was recorded at the station in 1980.

*Two of the shows don't appear in Henry Rollins' list of tour dates in the back of Get in the Van, but Instagram homies never said those shows didn't happen when the flyers were posted — I'll assume they went down until I'm told otherwise.

playing. I remember the spit hitting her glasses and her looking very nervous. She seemed to understand that it was all part of the "artistic experience" that we were trying to bring to them. After that, we stood in front of all of them and answered questions. The teacher didn't say anything. We packed up and played this party in a backyard of some kid's house in W. Covina. Typical thing where the nervous kid needs us to run his party for him and take all the heat when the pigs come in by climbing over his fence. We got a few songs off anyway.

What was the deal with that venue?
Was Boss Hogg's part of a larger place called Shamus O'Brian's?

@michaelscottvw I remember the place - multiple levels and hot like a sauna. It did have two names, but I don't recall why.
@dano_bndm_ might remember the story better.

#BlackFlag (Greg, Chuck, Dez, Henry, and Bill) at a big yard on a corner in #WestCovina with @dirtyrottenimbecilesdri, #DrKnow, #Decry, #Skoudrelz (feat. #TonyAlva), and #Armistice in '83. The pigs reportedly showed up a couple songs into Black Flag's set.

UPDATE 1: I might have been retelling a story about a different Black Flag show* in the SGV. @itsalivesanzine DMed to let me know what really happened. "That BLACK FLAG/DRI/DR KNOW show...Black Flag never showed up."

I think that might have been Black Flag's best lineup**. Too bad they never recorded together.

Update 2: Discogs reminded me that lineup has 2 tracks on the TV Party EP.

@james.valenzuela2 Wrong, Rollins worst singer for flag. Dez 1 Morris 2 chavo 3. Come on kids

R.I.P. James
Y.A.P.O. forever!

*I confused this party with the West Covina party that they played on 10.19.1982.

**Now I think their best line up was Greg, Henry, Chuck, Dez, and Chuck on the 1982 Demos.

 credit (ok, rant over). Gotta get my book out.

#BlackFlag's show at #PerkinsPalace in #Pasadena featured in an '84 issue of the L.A. Reader. Link in bio for a soundboard recording of their set from that night. The blurb is from waitakerwalks.blogspot.com.

Critic's Choice: BLACK FLAG/MEAT PUPPETS

Hardcore, with the newest and most interesting wrinkles around, will be on view at Perkins Palace this Saturday. Black Flag, who have just returned from a nationwide tour, continue to prove how totally unpredictable their sound is: The current set by Ginn, Rollins, and Co. veers maniacally from the cough-syrup doom chants heard in abundance on their riveting recent album My War to whizzing headbangers in the finest O.C. tradition. The new material in the set offers a fine preview of the band's forthcoming 1984 Opus 2. The Meat Puppets are the Arizona noise-meisters whose album of postatomic country, Meat Puppets II, has been saluted by the critics hither and yon. You probably won't hear music so difficult, charming, and brain-damaged anywhere else this year. The Perkins show is a terrific opportunity to catch SST Records' very best in full-bore live flight. —Chris Morris
